BEST GRADES OF TOBACCO BRING LARGE RETURNS

Dry Weather Prevents Moving, But Sales are Made in Country.

American Snuff Company is Active.

LOOSE LEAF SALES TO COME.

While inclement weather makes shipping and delivery of dark tobacco impossible and the loose leaf market is at a standstill, indications are that as soon as weather is sufficiently damp to permit of safe handling and inspection of the weed, it will move as lively as it did last year and at practically the same price.

The American Snuff company is at present about the only active one of the big buyers, the Italian Regie not being interested enough just now to have buyers in the field. The snuff company is taking little but the best grades for which it is paying from 8 to 9 1/2 for leaf and 3 to 4 cents for lugs, making the best grade of tobacco average around 8 cents, which is a mile above last year's average. However, the ordinary stuff will run more like six to seven and a half; but the planters are demanding the highest price for it all, and the best will be sold before the inferior is put on the market.

It is probable that when the weather is right the loose leaf market will be a big factor, two houses operating here this year with facilities for gathering the weed from the whole of the Black Patch.

Local pools were talked of and in some cases have been organized, but the price the American Snuff company has been offering has attracted the local grades in such a way as to indicate that the right price will call practically the whole crop out.

This is one of the biggest crops ever raised in the Black Patch and it is above the average in quality. Some planters are realizing as much as $35 an acre from their crop and it will average $25 or $30 on good land, which makes it a very profitable crop, though requiring a great deal of attention.

Reeves Infant.

The two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Reeves, living three miles from the city on the Pool road, died Saturday evening about 6 o'clock. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon and burial was in the Munier cemetery.

New Racing Record.

Milwaukee, Nov. 21.—What local horsemen claim is a world's record for three half-mile heats, was made by Hal Chaffin, owned by Theo. Sterneman, in the free-for-all race of Sunday's harness meeting at Washington park. The first two heats were stepped in 1:02 1/4 and the third in 1:02 3/4.

BURIED FIFTEEN YEARS.

Bodies of Seven Miners are Recovered at 1,000 Feet.

Paris, Nov. 21.—After being buried fifteen years in a mine at Montcau, les Mines, the bodies of seven miners have only now been found. An accident happened in one of the mines known as Puits Saint Francis, at the mines of Blanz, in 1895, and seven miners were known to be missing. The corpses of seventeen others were found at the time. Several miners who happened during the last few days to be working at a depth of more than 1,000 feet came upon strange-looking human remains. They were skeletons buried under many tons of coal, which had fallen on the men after the explosion of fire-damp which caused the accident.

JACKSON LEADS FIELD.

Has Best Batting Average in American League.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Jackson, of Cleveland, might have been a disputant with both Lajoie and Cobb for the prize automobile for hitting during 1910, in the American baseball league, but for the limited number of games in which he appeared. In the official list of batting averages he heads the list with a percentage of .387. He appeared in only 20 games, however, and was not eligible for the prize. Cobb was second with a percentage of .385 and Lajoie third with .384.

Philadelphia leads the clubs in hitting with .265 with Chicago last with .221. Lajoie played in the greatest number of games of any player in the league, being 519 times at bat in 159 games.

Memphis Methodist Conference Comes to Close This Afternoon by Making Appointments of Pastors

New Quadrennial Boards Are Named by Bishop and His Cabinet—Busy Sessions Held Today.

With the announcement of the adjournment of the seventy-first annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, adjourned finally this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock after a six days' session, to meet in Memphis next year. Before adjournment the conference adopted several interesting resolutions. The conference went on record as favoring the strict enforcement and enactment of laws, prohibiting the manufacture as well as the sale of intoxicants, because it is detrimental to the safety, happiness and prosperity of the people and nation.

Another resolution urging a return to the old Methodist love feast and class meetings; the family altar; systematic observance of the Lord's supper; that pastors avail themselves of the opportunity of family devotion and pastoral visits. The resolution called attention to the growing irreverence for the house of the Lord and recommended a return to the old Methodist type of kneeling in silent prayer upon entering the pew and pulpit. The resolution also protested against the Sunday newspaper and Sunday excursions, which are considered detrimental to spiritual interest to the church. The Sunday newspaper aroused quite a debate as some members wanted it stricken from the resolution, but it was finally included in the resolution without submitting it to a vote.

Proceedings.

The Rev. J. G. Clarke, presiding officer of Union City district, reported that there had been some rumors against the character of S. H. Blackwell, of the Kenton and Rutherford circuit. He said that he had not found anything definite enough to bring an accusation. His character was passed.

A riding vote of thanks was extended to the citizens of Paducah, Dr. G. T. Sullivan and everybody who contributed to the success of the conference.

The report of the Paducah pastors showed that all of the churches are in good condition. The Rev. G. T. Sullivan, pastor of Broadway church, reported that the church paid half of the salary of the Korean missionary. Have all the organizations ordered by the general conference. An increase of 200 members in the Sunday school and a net increase of 21 members in the church. Dr. Sullivan reported that the church debt had been reduced from $24,000 to $16,000, and the church was in a flourishing condition.

The Rev. G. W. Banks, pastor of the Fountain Avenue church, reported that the church had been removed a distance of nine blocks and a new church erected in one of the best residential sections of the city. He reported that there was an increase of 55 in the membership, and all the collections paid in full. He said that harmony existed in the church and that there were splendid prospects. He announced that he would like to remain at his present pastorate as he had served only two majority of persons at the ripe old age of 99 years. He resided at West Point, Miss., with relatives. He joined the Memphis conference in 1847. With his death the honor of being the oldest member of the Memphis conference falls to the Rev. Robert V. Taylor, of Taylor's Chapel, Tenn.

Funeral of Miss Watson. The funeral of Miss Sallie May Watson was held at the residence, 401 South Fourth street, this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Rev. M. E. Dodd, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated. Burial was in Oak Grove cemetery. The pallbearers were from the Baraca class of the Second Baptist church of which she was a member.

CHURCH TO TAKE NO ACTION.

Ysenia Polynia, Russia, Nov. 21. With pomp and ceremony which he spurned in his flight, and encased in a rare casket, which he would have shunned as an evil thing, the body of Count Tolstoi was brought back here today to be laid to rest under Poverty Oak, where the peasants he loved are wont to congregate. Fearful of an outbreak, the police of neighboring districts are gathering here, troops may be sent ostensibly to mark government respect, but really to prevent violent scenes.

Many View Body.

Astropova, Russia, Nov. 21.—Peasants all day long passed through the death chamber where Tolstoi lies. Many knelt beside the bier. The silence at times was broken by orthodox chants. The Countess Tolstoi sat beside the body for hours, often kissing the face. "The light of the world is out," she said, repeatedly. She left the bier only to attend matins in the school chapel, expecting that requiem mass would be said. When informed that this was not permitted she fainted.

The funeral will be held Tuesday and the police have been mobilized to prevent a public demonstration. The crowd that gathered around

State Soldiers are Again Seen on Streets This Morning; Attending Trials of The Night Rider Cases

Federal Court Convened This Morning and It is Probably Eddyville Raid Suits Will be Put on Trial Tomorrow.

Stanford Hall, the confessed night rider, who came to Paducah Saturday to be present in federal court today, is under guard by state troops here today in charge of Lieutenant Gooch, of Lamasco, Lyon county. Hall, who gave his name as "Sam" Hall to the police, knew Federal Court Clerk Walter S. Blackburn, who arranged for his release under guard in order that he might testify in the U. S. court. Hall is charged with flourishing a revolver in Peron Brothers' restaurant and also with carrying concealed a deadly weapon. In police court this morning the two cases were set for Wednesday morning for his convenience.

The presence of troops here today will prevent any outbreak in the night rider cases which will be tried. With several convictions of "hoot-leggers" in federal court, which was convened at the custom house this morning, Federal Judge Walter Evans, of Louisville, is hurrying through the criminal docket, which is likely to be disposed of this afternoon.

The civil docket will follow with trials in the majority of night rider cases. Hundreds of witnesses and spectators were present.

John H. Ray postmaster at Sedalia, Ky., charged with embezzling United States money order funds, etc., was found not guilty this morning by the jury. His case was continued from the April term of court.

Will Carmen, colored, charged with bootlegging, was found guilty and fined $100 and sentenced to 60 days in prison. John Grogan, colored, charged with the illicit selling of liquor, was found guilty but has not been sentenced.

The two cases against Aaron Tilley, charged with selling liquor without a license, were passed this morning when Attorney Hal S. Corbett, his counsel, produced a signed statement from Tilley's physician to the effect that he was confined with illness and not able to appear. Mr. Corbett asked for a continuance, but U. S. District Attorney George D. Ruelle asked for further proof as to the defendant's illness as the statement did not say where Tilley was confined, and moved that his bond be forfeited. Tilley appeared in court a short time later and his case may be tried this afternoon.

Without prejudice the suit of Knight, administrator of the estate of Wright Knight against the Illinois Central Railroad company, was dismissed. Attorney Campbell Flournoy filed a mandate and written opinion from the court of appeals and his motion to dismiss was sustained by Judge Evans.

Fifteen indictments against alleged bootleggers were found by the grand jury which reported this morning. Those indicted and under bond were: George Lewis, Claude Canaday, Charles Manning, Bozzy Bennett, Willie Downa, George Dowdy, Ed Dowdy, Ennis Northington, Bud Peavine, Will Harper, Glenn Sanders, Albert Eldridge and Albert Wallace. The criminal docket may be finished today and the night rider cases begun tomorrow morning or tonight.

Mrs. Mary Lou Hollowell, who got $35,000 damages against alleged night riders a year ago, is present. She is a witness in the cases.

The Grand Jury.

Judge Walter Evans convened court promptly at 9 o'clock this morning at the custom house. The grand jury was empaneled as follows: J. B. Scholes, Mayfield; G. M. D. Brooks, Berkeley; L. L. Watson, Halliwell; E. C. Thacker, Cadiz; A. M. Smith, Benton; W. C. Mitchell, Friendship; B. F. Maddux, Kuttawa; F. M. Davidson, Marlon; J. A. Hurley (foreman), Marlon; A. M. Rudd, Southland; William Leonard, Paducah; Frank Drenan, Mayfield; W. L. Gibson, Benton; J. H. McConnell, Princeton; Henry Runge, Paducah; Hyrd Alexander, Paducah. Those excused from serving were: Charles F. Baiter, Hickman; Frank Luter, Murray; J. H. Ashcraft, Paducah.

CRIPPEN WILL HANG ONE WEEK FROM TODAY

London, Nov. 21.—The Home office today decided that Dr. Crippen will not be pardoned nor his death sentence commuted. After an investigation, Secretary Winston Churchill announced that Crippen must hang as sentenced, November 23. When advised that his last hopes had vanished, the prisoner showed no emotion. This composure is regarded as indicative that Crippen was resigned to his fate after his appeal was denied by the higher court.

It is reported tonight that Dr. Crippen has confessed to the murder of his wife. Solicitor Newton refused either to deny or affirm the rumor.

Harvard Disappointed in Hope of Decisive Victory—Michigan
Leads West.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 21.—Harvard came, saw, but did not conquer in the big football game with Yale. After a bitter struggle lasting 90 minutes the battle ended in a draw, neither side being able to score.

More than 35,000 persons gathered around the historic Yale field. Most of them expected Harvard to win in impressive style. But the Yale eleven displayed unmistakable superiority. Harvard's attack at times was such a powerful construction that the Yale men were swept back as chaff before the wind. But at critical periods when there was an opening for Harvard to rise to the opportunity a cog in the machinery went wrong and the chances of victory were dashed to nothing. Yale's quickness of foot and de-portable tackling did much to discourage Yale. Michigan eleven, starting off with bull dog determination, Yale gradually fought the Crimson men into a state of bewilderment, and as the game progressed it was evident to the great crowd that courage and nerve were playing an important part in the successful attempt by Yale to prevent what first seemed inevitable defeat.

A Large Calibered President.
President Taft attended the recent game, at which Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston made a trip with Graham-White. After the flight, the plane was landed near the automobile occupied by the president, who congratulated Mr. Fitzgerald on his coolness and nerve, and asked:

"Are you not afraid to go up in such a flimsy machine?"

"There is only one machine that I am at all afraid of," was the smiling reply of "Honey Fitz." "and that is the Republican machine."

The president, composing himself with an effort, inquired: "And could you see people on earth very plainly while you were away up in the air?"

"Well," replied "Honey Fitz," a droll twinkle in his eye, "I could see you without any difficulty."—Success Magazine.

GOOD PROGRESS ON THE CANAL

Over 36,500,000 CUBIC YARDS
MOVED DURING YEAR

35,578 Men Employed; Health Conditions Improve—Death Rate
Only 10.84 Per Cent.

NO PLAGUES DURING YEAR

Washington, Nov. 21.—Summarized in phrase, "satisfactory progress all along the Panama Canal zone," is the gist of the annual report of the isthmian canal commission, made to the secretary of war, Dickinson, by Colonel George Goethals, chairman of the commission and chief engineer in charge of the work on the canal, and made public by the former.

With the work of excavation and of construction progressing favorably at all points along the line, with health conditions better than ever before, with a centralization and consequent economy in certain parts of the work and with a maximum of laborers since the United States began to dig the canal, Col. Goethals' report was decidedly pleasing to Secretary Dickinson.

The chief engineer reports, however, that it was not all smooth sailing during the past year. Floods broke out to a certain extent. He mentions four slides, covering respectively 1.7, 7.3, 1.6 and 1.7 acres and requiring during the year the removal of more than a million cubic yards of material. "It was expected," he says, "that slides would occur, and in the estimates provision was made for them, but it now appears from cracks that show in the upper surface adjacent to the faces of the slide, that sufficient allowance had not been made, and the estimates were corrected to meet the new conditions."

Three bad breaks, he reports, occurred during the year, one at the town of Culebra covering an area of more than ten acres and requiring a removal of more than a million and a half of cubic yards of dirt and stone. The second largest break covered an area of more than 11 acres and required a removal of more than 200,000 cubic yards, while the third break aggregated about 10,000 cubic yards.

The total amount of material removed from slides and breaks in the central division of the canal during the year was more than two and a half million cubic yards, or about 15 per cent of the amount removed during the year in the Culebra cut, the principal part of the central division.

More than 36,500,000 cubic yards of material were removed from all parts of the canal during the year, of which almost 15,000,000 were from the Culebra cut and almost 10,000,000 from the Chagres section. About 25,000,000 cubic yards remain to be removed from the Culebra cut before this section of the canal is completed.

Reports from various points along the line show that the cost of excavation varied from 24 cents per cubic yard at one place to as high as $2.51 at another. There is no such divergence of price in the cost of per cubic yard of concrete work, the lowest average being $6.09 and the highest $8.00. More than 700,000 cubic yards of concrete were laid during the year.

There was a steady increase from the beginning of the past fiscal year in the number of employees on the canal zone, until March 30 last, they reached a maximum of 38,676. The largest force on record. This includes those employed on the Panama railroad. The total force at the end of the year was 35,578, as compared with 33,493 a year earlier.

Investigations carried on during the year indicate, says Col. Goethals, that during ordinary years there will be a considerable surplus of water from Gatun Lake, even in dry season, and that the water supply of the worst-known dry season for the last 19 years, namely that of 1908, would be sufficient to maintain through the canal an average daily number of passages three or four times as great as the average number now passing the Suez Canal, this after making reasonable reductions for evaporation, leakage, power supply and lockages.

Health conditions on the isthmus are reported to be an improvement over those of the preceding year; and no cases of plague or yellow fever originated on the isthmus during the year. The daily average of sick was 23 out of every thousand employed as against 23.43 during the preceding year; and the total number of deaths among employees was 548, equivalent to an average of 10.84 per thousand.

News of Theatres

At G. Field in Town.

At G. Field's minstrel band gave a parade and concert on the streets this morning that attracted an immense crowd. This feature of the big show loses none of its excellence as the years go by. The band and orchestra combine in the first part tonight, giving a musical program that of itself is worth hearing. This is the twenty-fifth successful year for the Field minstrel and is being appropriately celebrated with the most elaborate production Mr. Field has yet taken on the road.

Concerning this season's production the Louisville Courier-Journal said:

"If Al G. Field ever had any doubt to the hold he has upon the affection of the Louisville public, it was dispelled last night when a packed house greeted him upon his annual opening of Macaulay's theater. If an enthusiastic welcome did not warm the cockles of his heart, those same cockles were the only things in the house that were not warm. Al Field has the best aggregation of minstrels seen here in the last few seasons. The engagement closes tonight."

The New Orleans News said: "Mr. Field is surrounded by a score of splendid voices, a squad of nimble dancers and several excellent comedians and with the aid of clever and beautiful scenic effects and some real good new songs the show is very entertaining."

"The Spendthrift."

The coming of "The Spendthrift," Frederic Thompson's production of Porter Emerson Brown's latest dramatic success, to the Kentucky tomorrow night brings with it one of the best of America's youngest leading men, Mr. Lionel Adams. Mr. Adams while comparatively a young man, is by no means a novice in his art. He early came under Albee's observation, and it was in her company that he made his first professional appearance. While with her he played "leading business" in the production of "Nell Gwynne" and "Josephine."

He was for several seasons leading man in various stock companies, and when William Gillette produced "Secret Service" he selected Mr. Adams for the role of Lieutenant Maxwell. He went to London with Mr. Gillette's company and secured a decided hit there in the doughty lieutenant. He also appeared in the original production of "Sue," when Charles Frohman presented that play in the English metropolis with Annie Russell in the title part. He was in the original cast with Mrs. Leslie Carter in "The Heart of Maryland," and was subsequently selected as leading man in the company especially organized to tour the country in Hiccup's great play. Following this, Mr. Adams was leading man with Julia Marlowe in Clyde Fitch's great success, "Barbara Fritchie." Liebler & company featured him for two seasons in "The Christian." In the last two seasons Mr. Adams has been seen in the title part of "The Man of the hour" and the leading part in "Mind in Full."

"The Spendthrift" in its conception and execution is entirely different from "A Fool There Was," which play first brought Porter Emerson Brown into prominence as a playwright. It deals with the frivolous extravagance of a luxury-loving wife, and the financial ruin achieved by the husband in his efforts to gratify her extravagant whims. When he realizes the direful pass to which their mode of life has brought them, he demands of his wife the sacrifices that are necessary, preparing, at the same time, to make them himself. The wife's life has been too easy—she has not sufficient stamina to face comparative poverty—and with the idea of relieving their monetary distress she borrows a large sum from a man friend. This action hastens the inevitable climax, which is in turn followed by an entire readjustment of the family relations, producing a condition more nearly approximating happiness than any that has heretofore obtained in the household. The play is in four acts, the first three showing the lavishly furnished and tastefully decorated interiors of a well-to-do New York broker's home, the last an attic room in a lower East Side tenement house. The company was especially engaged by Mr. Thompson for the present tour, with a view to the particular fitness of each member to his or her respective parts. They include Doris Mitchell, who portrays the spendthrift wife; Lionel Adams, Albert Sackett, Vivian Martin, Lizzie McCall, Forrest Orr, Grace Gibbs and William H. Sullivan.

Mr. Thompson, the producer, is best known as producer of "Folly of the Circus," in which he starred his wife, "Mabel Taliaferro."

Daily Thought.

The man who finds not God in his own heart will find him nowhere, and he who finds him there will find him everywhere.—David Swing.

Rev. A. J. Meaders, secretary of the Memphis conference, besides being invaluable to the body on account of his knowledge of the procedure, is an accommodating gentleman with a heart in him, and without his assistance we suspect that both the conference and the press would have been tied up indefinitely. He is one of those rare men, who can keep their heads in an emergency, and be pleasant and efficient at the same time without forgetting anything.

THE PASSING OF A PROPHET.

Count Leo Tolstol, social reformer and one of the foremost literary men of the age, died Sunday morning in a little hut in a Russian provincial town, where he was stricken in his flight to a monastery to end his days in quietude.

His end is an exemplification of one of those peculiar ironies and humors of fate. Tolstol renounced his manner of living to find peace and rest, but seems never to have found it. He was persecuted and harassed by his own keen sympathies for his people and his desire to take their burden upon himself. Still longing for peace and in the knowledge that his work was done, he fled for the seclusion of a distant monastery, abandoning his good wife, whose companionship had been the solace of his long life, and was overtaken in a little railroad station, passing away in the utter discomfort of a poor village, exposed to everything from which he was trying to escape. Peace at the end would have been much nearer at home.

His peculiar temperament and personality are confined to us, his contemporaries, with his genius and philosophy, and so, it is difficult to offer admiration for his magnificent gifts untempered with criticisms of his follies. He belonged to the nobility and was rich in landed estates; yet he dressed and lived as a peasant. That he had greatly influenced his own country, there is no doubt; and if we judge all men and all things by their fruits, we must justify his methods by their results. Tolstol lived in Russia, not in the United States. Like the Prophet Ezekiel he must needs adopt striking means to attract attention, and his example as well as precept was a living protest against Russian social custom. He tried to bridge the gap between the nobility and the peasantry. He belonged to the caste of the former, yet lived with and was beloved by the latter, thus proving that the nobility is but the same clay as the peasantry.

Living as we do, under a system, governmental and social, practically founded on the theories, which Tolstol teaches, we resent what seems to us the superficiality and hypocrisy of a man, retaining his patent of nobility and lands, which make him rich, yet dwelling in seeming poverty among the humblest of his race. The same difference of conditions, which prevents our understanding this method of Tolstol, which is accepted very naturally by the peasants, whom he is trying to reach, prevents our literary men from attaining the subtlety of symbolism and imagery, which is so natural to writers of those northern European countries.

With us it is better that a man should lead the simple life in the environment, in which providence has cast him; for there is no social caste to hinder his full development, and only shame and contempt could come from the idiosyncracies of a social reformer like Tolstol did he live over here.

We cannot agree with everything Tolstol advocates. Living under conditions that have stirred his sensitive nature to its very depths, constantly thinking upon the injustice of society, cut off from his kind and degree by self-imposed barriers, Tolstol's every perception and conception, every expression and hope and doubt was abnormal, just as his manner of living was to us in one way abnormal and incomprehensible. Yet, while we with a certain superficiality, characteristic of the Greeks, whom Paul addressed on the Areopagus, call Tolstol a dreamer and pardon his innumerable idiosyncracies by reference to the peculiar conditions of Russian society, is it not possible that Tolstol has seen truths that we do not see, and has exposed error of which we are guilty? He is a prophet of the brotherhood idea, living in a land to which the idea extends the most hope, and in whose dark shadows the dawning light shines the more resplendent by contrast with the prevailing shades. So, it meant more to him than it means to us, and if he has gone too far, the excess does not detract from the truth of what is true, nor make Tolstol any the less a prophet that his vision has overstepped the limitations of his prophetic inspiration.

Leo Tolstol was born August 28, 1828, at Yasnaya Polyana, a village about 150 miles south of Moscow. He was a descendant in the twentieth generation of a German named Indria, who went to Russia in 1553 with two sons and a retinue of 3,000 people, and who, being baptized in the Orthodox church, received the name of Leonty. His great-grandson received from the Grand Duke Vassili Tomyi, the surname Tolstol, and the countship dates from the coronation of the Empress Catherine II, being bestowed upon Peter Andreyevich Tolstol as part consideration for his services in the trial and execution of the Tzarevitch Alexis.

The mother of Count Leo Tolstol, who traced her descent from Rusik, died when he was 3 years old, and his father five years later. The boy's early life was passed in the village. His early training was conducted under the influence of the general feeling among wealthy Russians that religion was a superstition and not necessary for the best development of really cultured people. He entered the Kazan University in 1844 as a student in Turco-Arabic literature, but, failing to pass the examinations, was transferred to the department of law.

In 1847 he petitioned to be stricken off the roll of the university. The reasons for this he gave in later life; first, the fact that his brother had finished his course, and second, that reading the Esprit des Lois had opened to him a new sphere of independent mental work, whereas in his opinion the university with its demands, far from aiding such work, only hindered it.

In 1851, Tolstol went to visit his brother in the Caucasus, and there he was profoundly influenced by the rugged wildness of that country. Entering the Horse Guards as a volunteer, he remained in military service eight years. In January, 1954, two months after the Crimean war began, he was made a commissioned officer, and he served in the campaign with distinction as the commander of a mounted battery.

During the period before his army service he had written many short stories which attracted the attention of the literary set in Moscow and St. Petersburg. The war furnished him with a new experience, which was valuable in his later work. When it was ended, Tolstol went to St. Petersburg, where, as a nobleman, a returning hero and a literature, he was much lionized.

To the years passed in the capital belong the works of the strictly literature type upon which Tolstol's fame as a great literary artist rests. Among these, the most noted are, "Childhood, Boyhood and Youth," "The Cossacks," "Sebastopol Sketches," "War and Peace" and "Anna Karenina."

His surroundings in the capital and his own manner of life there, soon disgusted Tolstol. Afterwards, he referred to himself as having been during that period a murderer, adulterer, robber and thief, though his conduct was not of the sort that is usually characterized by such terms. Going back to Yasnaya Polyana, he made his home there for part of each year during the rest of his life.

Count Tolstol was married in September, 1862, to the daughter of a professor in the University of Moscow. In her society he found the utmost comfort and happiness. Though they had nine children, the cares of motherhood did not prevent the countess from serving as her husband's amanuensis all through his labors as an author.

In advance of the famous decree of emancipation of Alexander II, Tolstol's first act after he had retired to his country estate was to free his serfs. He is said to have been the first nobleman in Russia to take this course. Then he busied himself with plans for the education and betterment of the peasantry.

Becoming wrought up over what seemed to him the purposelessness of life, he contemplated suicide, but after consideration he gave this idea up and delved instead into all sorts of philosophic investigation. From observation of the manner of living among the peasants, Tolstol at length reached the conclusion that a literal following of the gospel resulted in a truly useful and happy life. He denounced the garb of a peasant, settled down to till the soil, and from that forward cultivated extreme simplicity in diet and in conduct.

This was about 1880, and in the twenty years following, his principal literary works were: "My Confession," "Criticism of Dogmatic Theology," never translated; "The Four Gospels Harmonized and Translated," "What I Believe," sometimes called "My Religion"; "The Gospel in Brief," "What Must We Do Then?" "On Life," also called "Life"; "The Kreutzer Sonata," treating of the sex question; "The Kingdom of God is Within You," "The Christian Teaching," "What is Art?" and "Resurrection."

His chief literary work during the latter part of his life was an exhaustive autobiography, on which for years he spent hours every day. A strict vegetarian and almost a total abstainer, he would take a sip of wine only at the urgent request of his physician, who had been virtually a member of his household for many years.

Tolstol asserted he was opposed to both anarchism and socialism. He once said the salvation of Russia depended upon the peasant ownership of the land and the application of the single-tax scheme of Henry George, whom, with William Lloyd Garrison, he classed as the greatest of Americans. He blamed Russia for the Russo-Japanese war, and prophesied that the Duma, whose members he referred to as "dabblers," would never accomplish anything.

King Cotton's Triumphal Progress.

E. R. Nichols, of Caruthersville, Mo., has laid Hickman's biggest load-of-cotton champion—G. B. Evans. In the shade, Nichols hauled on one load 16,500 pounds of seed cotton. The wagon frame is 24 feet long, 8 feet wide and 7 feet high. Twelve mules were required to draw the load to town and a day was consumed in traveling a distance of six miles. Mr. Nichols encountered broken wagon wheels, broken bridges and other obstacles, causing an expenditure of nearly $100. Cotton was selling on the day Mr. Nichols went to town at $4.60 per hundred in the seed, making his load worth $759. It was glummed, however, turning out ten bales, and was sold at 14 1/2 cents in the lint.—Hickman Courier.

CONFERENCE NOTES

Y. P. Reddick, of the Lexington circuit, was called home because of the illness of his mother.

All of the services yesterday afternoon were attended by large congregations. The service for the Confederate veterans at the First Christian church was well attended by the Confederate veterans. Miss Cordell Irvin, the returned missionary from Korea, delivered an interesting talk on missions to the missionary workers at the First Presbyterian church.

What They Say: Conference Notes. They say, that Bishop Candler's sermon yesterday was one of the ablest ever delivered in the city. It made a profound impression.

They say, that the pulpits were very ably filled by eloquent ministers throughout the city. The sister denominations are delighted with the fraternal spirit.

They say, that the class ordained as elders is a class above the average. There were 11 in the class.

They say, that the conference was exceedingly pleasant, harmonious and a great success. It was the largest attended conference in its history.

They say, that Miss Cordell Irvin captured the large audience at the First Presbyterian church by her recital of the Korean Mission. Her talk was thrilling.

They say, that the members and visiting friends to the conference were all delighted with the hospitality of Paducah. Her citizens threw wide-open the doors and generous hospitality abounded.

They say, that Methodist preachers can beat the world singing. The old hymns had the old time ring. They don't need a choir when the Conference meets.

The local deacons ordained were: John F. Brooke, Franklin O. Bell, Isaac S. Addison, Olla G. Andrews, Samuel A. Harris, Luther F. Proctor, Francis B. Jones, Traveling deacons: Fred H. Peoples, and Arthur E. Doyle.

W. A. Leeman, vice chairman of Humboldt, Tenn., said it was the most successful conference ever held.

Fond Daddy (to friend)—This is my fondest. Freddy, this is Mr. Jackson. Freddy—I know. You're the man I've heard so much about. Many a man catches on who does not know when to let go.

The Clinque. David Belasco, in an interview said that without attention to the minutest details theatrical success could rarely be attained.

"And yet," he added, smiling, "even this grand virtue of attention to details may be carried to excess. Thus a certain playwright said at rehearsal to his leading man:

"Now, remember, John, after you speak this line, 'Helen, I will save you though I perish,' pause and wait for the applause."

"But the leading man sneered and answered cynically:

"How do you know there'll be any applause?"

"That is my business, not yours, John," the playwright answered with calm confidence."—Washington Star.

GREAT CROWDS AT BROADWAY CHURCH

HEAR BISHOP CANDLER'S MAGNIFICENT SERMON.

Ordination of Deacons, Love Feast, Memorial and Epworth League Rally.

CONTINUE THROUGHOUT DAY.

Crowds of people were turned away yesterday at all of the services at the Broadway Methodist church. The large auditorium with the additional seating capacity of the Sunday school room proved inadequate to seat the people. No Sunday school was held yesterday, and the entire day was devoted to the services of the conference.

The splendid day opened at 9:30 o'clock when the love feast was held with the Rev. J. H. Roberts, of Covington, Tenn., presiding. At 10:45 o'clock Bishop Warren A. Candler preached. It was the first opportunity of many to hear the bishop. It was a magnificent sermon. The ordination of deacons followed the sermon.

Yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock the memorial service was held in memory of the departed members who have died since the last conference. The Rev. G. W. Hedley, presiding elder of the Memphis district, presided at the service, which was made more impressive by the announcement of the death of the Rev. John Randle, of West Point, Miss., the oldest member of the conference. The four departed members are: The Rev. J. M. Maxwell, the Rev. R. W. King, of Memphis; the Rev. Soule Taylor, of Covington, Tenn., and the Rev. John Randle, of West Point, Miss.

The Rev. H. B. Johnston, of Dyersburg, Tenn., conducted the devotional exercises, and a number of impromptu remarks were made by friends on the dead members.

At 6:30 o'clock last night a rally of the Epworth league was held. The pastor, the Rev. G. T. Sullivan, presided. Addresses were made by the Rev. Paul Jefferson, of Murray; the Rev. G. A. Keleln, of McKenzie, Tenn., secretary of the Epworth league, and John R. Pepper, of Memphis.

In the evening the usual service was held. Dr. A. B. Jones, president of the Memphis Conference Female Institute of Jackson, Tenn., delivered the sermon. The elders were ordained by Bishop Candler at the close of the service.

The deacons ordained were: Local: John T. Brooks, Franklin C. Bell, Isaac S. Adkins, O. G. Andrews, Samuel A. Harris, Luther P. Proctor and F. H. Jones. Traveling: Fred H. Peoples and Arthur E. Doyle.

The elders ordained were: Local: Joe B. Maxson and Adam L. Davis. Traveling: Henry L. Johnson, Geo. T. Sellers, Edwin W. Maxson, Ludwell H. Estes, Jr., William A. Banks, Robert W. Thompson, William P. Maxson, Ulysses S. McCaslin and Joseph R. Womble.

Dr. McMurry.
Dr. W. F. McMurry, of Louisville, corresponding secretary of the board of church extension, delivered an impromptu address Saturday evening. Dr. McMurry arrived Saturday evening at 6:10 o'clock from Louisville, and was not advised that he was on the program until a short time before he entered the pulpit. However, he was equal to the occasion and delivered one of the strongest addresses of the conference. Dr. McMurry recently returned from Brazil, and he told of the progress of the work in South America. The anniversary of the board of church extension was presided over by Dr. G. T. Sullivan, of Paducah.

"SLEEP ON NOW AND TAKE YOUR REST"

DR. D. C. WRIGHT SAYS AWAKE TO THE HOUR.

"Arise, Let Us Be Going," Says the Christ to His Disciples.

LAST COMMUNION IS SUNDAY

Next Sunday morning his last communion at Grace church will be conducted by Dr. David Cady Wright, who will leave the first of December for Louisville to become rector of St. Paul's parish.

Yesterday morning he preached from the text: "Sleep on now, and take your rest; behold the hour is at hand and the Son of Man is betrayed into the hands of sinners. Rise, let us be going."

These words of the Savior, said Dr. Wright, coming almost in one breath are apparently contradictory; yet, they express a great truth. Properly interpreted in the light of the circumstances under which they were uttered, the Savior was in great agony and he had asked his three beloved disciples to watch and pray with him. He had found them asleep at a moment when he wanted above everything else the flesh to crave for sympathy and companionship. Had they watched and prayed the betrayal by Judas might have been averted. They had failed and the betrayer was at hand. Further watchfulness was useless, now; so he told them that as far as watching was concerned, "Sleep on now and take your rest."

But there was other work to do. The past was gone and could neither be recalled or mended. They might "sleep on" as to that. Yet the command comes "Arise, let us be going." "There was more to do. New circumstances to meet. Those who had failed him as watchers, might accompany him to the end.

Christ had watched and prayed and been strengthened, and the way of the cross was to him a way of triumph and glorification of the spirit of man, who had fought with and conquered himself. His disciples, who had failed to watch and pray, fled. They were not prepared. But they learned their lesson; later and came to understand that victory over self enables one to brave temptations.

The words "Arise, let us be going," came from an earnest man. The circumstances permitted of nothing else but earnestness. Some day every one of us will be called upon to face death, and then we too, shall be earnest. But, shall death find us for the first time brought to a realization that final summons comes. The unwise virgins were earnest when the cry awoke them. "The bridegroom cometh," but their earnestness was too late.

As for sleep, with its failures and neglect, "Sleep on now and take your rest," but the call comes this morning, "Arise, let us be going."

Dying.

A large audience was present at the Unity Evangelical church on South Fourth street last night to hear the Rev. T. C. Schuler, editor of the Midland Methodist speak. Money for Mission.

Large congregations were present at the First Presbyterian church yesterday to hear visiting Methodist ministers. The Rev. H. G. Hender, son spoke in the morning and at night the Rev. J. T. Meyers spoke. At the morning service Miss Mabel Shelton sang sweetly and at the evening hour Miss Ann Brashaw sang a beautiful solo.

A missionary meeting was held yesterday afternoon and a large congregation was present. Miss Cordelia Irwin, of Korea, and Dr. McMurry spoke.

FOOTBALL RECORD

TWENTY-TWO KILLED AND 400 INJURED DURING SEASON.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—The American football players' annual contest with Death is now drawing near to its close and the score up to date indicates clearly that Death will be victorious again this year just as he has been in the ten years beginning with 1901.

Last year the number of players killed on the football field or dying later after a lingering illness from injuries received on the field totaled thirty. This year the number of dead is twenty-two.

It would seem from these figures that the inauguration of the new rules had made the game approximately one-third less dangerous than it was a year ago. But a comparison of the number of deaths in the two years is not conclusive on this point.

400 Injured in Year.

A comparison of the number of injured this year shows a total of 499. Last year the number of injured was only 216. The number of maimed and bruised and broken football players for the year 1910 exceeds by more than 100 the injured of any year since 1901.

From these figures it is apparent that the revision of the rules, and the dividing of the game into quarters instead of into halves, has not had the effect of reducing the dangers that was sought for. On the contrary the game of football seems under the present rules to be dangerous to more people now than it ever has been before. So-called "open-play," so far as the figures for the year show, has no advantage over the old mass play system in the way of cutting down casualties. Indeed, the figures indicate that football is more

Game Not More Popular.

It cannot be argued that more people are playing football this year than last. It is doubtful if the game is any more popular now than it has been during the past five years. It should be remembered, too, that the season of 1910 is not yet ended. The big Thanksgiving day games are yet to come and the Thanksgiving day games can be relied upon to add materially to the list of killed and badly hurt.

BIG MEN GOING TO RIVER CONGRESS

PRESIDENT TAFT WILL DELIVER IMPORTANT ADDRESS.

Governor Harmon, of Ohio, to Discuss Federal Plan for Rivers.

ENGINEERS ALSO ON PROGRAM

(United Press.) Washington, Nov. 21.—President Taft, Judson Harmon, General W. H. Hays, chief of engineers of the army, Col. Williams, Sefton, chairman of Conservation of the Canadian government, Amador De la Barra of Mexico, and many other prominent speakers will address the Seventh Convention of the National Rivers and Harbors congress which will be held in this city December 7, 8, and 9.

No more impressive array of distinguished public men has ever been gathered together to preach the gospel of inland waterways. At the last convention there were more than four thousand delegates in attendance. It is expected that this number will be surpassed this year. President Taft is expected to boom the work of the congress, the byword of which, according to Secretary J. P. Ellison, who opened his headquarters today, is "A waterway policy not a waterway project." In his opening address to the delegates in Chicago last year he said that recourse to the waterways of the United States was the only solution of the problem of transportation—the great problem of the hour.

General Bixby's appearance is also an innovation. Heretofore chiefs of the corps of army engineers have refrained from addressing the convention on the ground that because of their intimate connection with the work on rivers and harbors their utterances might be misconstrued. General Bixby, by reason of his extensive experience, is conversant with all phases of the waterway question. Judson Harmon is put forward by the officials of the congress as the advocate of the federal idea in the development of waterways. In opposition to the plan advocated in the congress at its meeting in Cincinnati seven years ago of assessing different states for their pro rata share in developing interstate waterways, he insisted that jurisdiction belonged entirely to the federal government and development should be under its direction.

Other speakers who will address the congress are Champ Clark of Missouri; Walter S. Dickey, of Kansas City, chief promoter of the Missouri River steamboat line; F. W. Crandall, of the Travelers Protective association; Robert J. MacFarland, of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Boyle Tomkins, of Louisiana, president of the Woman's National Rivers and Harbors congress.

MOORE WINS FIRST.

Captured Twenty-Seven Blue Ribbons at New York Horse Show.

New York, Nov. 21.—The official summary of the twenty-sixth annual horse show, which closed at Madison Square Garden last night, gives Judge William H. Moore of Chicago, even greater honors than first place indicated. His entries took 27 blue ribbons, 20 ahead of his nearest rival, William Foster, with only seven blue. George Watson, E. T. Stotenberg and H. R. Lea came third, with five blues each. Paul Borg has only four, C. W. Watson of Baltimore only three and Walter Winans two while Alfred Vanderbilt comes third from the end with a single first prize.

The Moore horses, besides the 27 blues, took 11 red ribbons, five yellows or third, four whites or fourth, and seven cups.

The Maid of Saragossa.

In July, 1898, the French were pressing hard upon Saragossa. The hardest fighting was at the Portillo gate, where the assaulting batteries more than once reached the dilapidated earthworks. The gunners of the Spanish battery were shot down one after another, the survivors falling before they could discharge the last loaded gun. The infantry clinched, and the French were closing in when a young woman, Anastasia Saragosa, betrothed to a young artillery sergeant who had just fallen, rushed in, snatched the lighted torch from her dying lover's hand and fired the undischarged twenty-four pounder into the head of the advancing column. The enemy was shaken. The citizens, shamed, rushed forward, recaptured the battery, and the assault was beaten off. The girl received from the government a commission as sublieutenant of the artillery and a life pension. A few years later she was seen by an English traveler serving with her battery in Andalusia. She was a handsome young woman of the lower class. She wore a blue artillery tunic, on the sleeve of which was a shield of honor.

COUNT TOLSTOI

the hut where Tolstoi lay dying in the early Sunday morning hours awaited breathlessly the verdict of Dr. Thirukovsky and Dr. Pegg, two leading heart specialists who were hurriedly summoned. The examination was brief. Tolstoi failed to recognize either of the physicians and asked:

"Who are these strangers?"

When informed, he said:

"What fine men!"

In spite of their natural reluctance to spread the discouraging reports, the consulting physicians could not see their way to hold out any ray of hope. His heart succumbed shortly after he had issued from under the influence of an injected stimulant. He died without regaining consciousness.

Throughout the heartbreaking night the motley crowd, made up of the most varied elements imaginable, pressed around the low hut. There were distant relatives of the author, Tolstoians, villagers and many churchmen among them. Abbot Varsofionus, who did not lose hope until the end of seeing Tolstoi on behalf of religion.

There was a moment of silence after the announcement of his death, then every head was bowed and everywhere sobbing was heard. One called out, "his heart was burnt by his unbounded love for humanity," and this and similar phrases ran through the weeping Russians.

Later in the day all the peasants in the district flocked here. None were excluded from the death chamber. The chamber was decorated with pine branches. The body will be transferred to Yasnaya Polyana.

It is stated that Tolstoi expressed a wish to be buried on a hill at Yasnaya Polyana, where he played as a child, but that the funeral should be simple. The family, however, has agreed not to interfere with any honors the public may desire to pay.

The friends of the dead writer have started a movement for the acquisition of the house where he died. The Duke Michaelovich has sent a message to the Countess Tolstoi saying:

"My whole soul is with you and your family at this sad moment."

The police today forbade the theaters from suspending their performances because of the death of Tolstoi. Nevertheless, the play houses closed. At church the requiem was permitted.

Bryan Pays Tribute.

Dallas, Texas, Nov. 21.—William Jennings Bryan, en route to his ranch near Mission, Texas, paid this tribute to Tolstoi:

"Tolstoi saw the coming era of brotherhood. It is evident everywhere. He was a wonderful man. Born in a circle of aristocracy, he had access to the highest circles of Russian society. Yet this man forsook the power of the very circles in which, before, he had moved, and his message has been of love for men."

Church May Ignore Him.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 21.—The church officials in the metropolitan cities, Antonius, St. Petersburg, Valamier, Moscow, Plovsk and Kiev, and Loupanoff, chief procurator of the holy synod, decided to leave things as they are with respect to Tolstoi. A penury synod has not been called and telegraphic instructions have been dispatched to the bishops informing them that their request is not permissible. The government intends to co-operate with the church in the enforcement of its decision, although both the emperor and Premier Stolypin have indicated a desire that the great Russian be buried with Russian rites.

Repeatedly advances have been made, which would permit the lifting of the ban of ex-communication decreed against Tolstoi in 1901.

Unless the emperor commands, Tolstoi will be buried without the rites of the Greek church. The popular feeling universally is for a religious funeral, and never before was there such confusion and bewilderment over the body of a great man, who was regarded by the world as one of the sincerest Christians.

Strict Censorship.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 21.—A strict censorship is being made by the Russian press in the publication of news concerning Tolstoi's death.
